

2000 Medical Alumni Reunion

Michael E. Kimerling, M.D., M.P.H.

Weiskotten Lecturer
"Experiences in Cambodia and Russia"
Doctors Without Borders

- Associate Professor and faculty physician at the University of Alabama in Birmingham
- Advisor to "Doctors Without Borders" and the World Health Organization on tuberculosis
- Member of the first team of foreign health-care workers allowed to live and work in rural Cambodia
- Advisor to the MSF Russian TB program in Kemerovo prisons, Siberia
- Currently developing a manual with the World Health Organization on TB control in prisons, due to be released this year

Patricia J. Numann, M.D. '65

Distinguished
Alumna Award
Winner

- Lloyd S. Rogers, M.D., Professor of Surgery
- Medical Director University Hospital
- Chair, American Board of Surgery and second vice president of the American College of Surgeons
- Founding member, Association for Surgical Education
- Received the Syracuse Post Standard Woman of Achievement Award, the New York State Woman of Accomplishment Award, the Governor's Woman of Distinction Award, and named Distinguished Teaching Professor at SUNY
- Founded the Association for Women Surgeons

Ralph Mosca, M.D. '85

Distinguished
Young Alumnus
Award Winner

- Director of Pediatric Cardiac Surgery at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center
- Co-Director of the New York Presbyterian Hospital of Columbia and Cornell Universities
- Directed an International Heart Program at University of Michigan and performed more than 50 operations on infants and children with heart defects from around the world who could not afford or access such care in their own countries
- Traveled to Russia to provide medical relief and train cardiac surgeons in the art of congenital heart surgery and post-op care